Atlas Equator 2.0 OFC

£6/m

It's hard to strike a balance with speaker cables. All of them use their construction and materials to massage the sound fed through them - bringing out treble at the cost of punch, say - but this Atlas takes the neutral approach.

The intro to Radiohead's challenging 15 Step is always a real test for any component. And the Equator doesn't buckle, offering instead a natural, measured sound that, while at times understated, still brims with detail and nuance.

That manner might not be for all, but if dynamic ability and a considered-yet-natural sound are what you crave, this is cash well spent.

Rating ★★★★★

VERDICT Natural, even-handed and with good dynamic ability - this speaker cable is a must-hear
